Since the 1950s, the ASU Art Museum has been actively collecting provocative and compelling artworks to share with our students and community members. The collection now includes more than 12,000 objects, primarily acquired through generous donation. One area of focus is work created at the ASU Art Museum; the current exhibition includes many of these objects and others in a range of media acquired within the past four years.

This exhibition is generously supported by the Evelyn Smith Exhibition Fund and members of the ASU Art Museum.

If you would like to bring your class or group to see an exhibition or collection, and/or meet with a curator, please contact Andrea Feller, Curator of Education at andrea.feller@asu.edu (<mailto:andrea.feller@asu.edu>).

Colin Chillag, "Portrait of a Man," 2010. Oil on Linen, overall: 24 x 18 in. From the ASU Art Museum permanent collection.
